
Dawn 2 Dusk - Land's End to John O'Groats story

Contributed by jeremy hoyland
Tuesday, 17 July 2007
Last Updated Tuesday, 17 July 2007

This is the story of Jim & Jeremy's entry into the Dawn to Dusk competition, flying a flexwing microlight from Land's end to John O'Groats in a day. As this is a copy of our official entry report some details of the more adventurous aspects of the trip are missing!!! but it does give a fairly comprehensive account of what you can do in a day when you put your ind to it. Alas we didn't win the competition. Some Bishop fliting round a bit of Australia in a Cessna did, but we did get an invite to a Royal Garden Party as a result, so even losing has its upsides.

Just follow the link below to find the full trilogy. Sorry for it being in three parts but I had to split it due to all the photos.

Jeremy

http://chilboltonflyingclub.co.uk/component/option,com_docman/task,cat_view/gid,23/Itemid,32/